

44% of respondents believe in incremental changes for a sustainable future, while 35% call for radical societal overhaul

As we continue to see increasing conversation surrounding sustainable development, which of the following statements do you most agree with? (N = 1,000)

To achieve a sustainable future, we must create incremental change within current societal structures

44%

The work towards a sustainable future requires that we radically change our society

35%

The future is already sustainable

11%

A sustainable future is impossible/impractical

10%