

Four-year college graduates rated political participation as important more often than those with less education.

Some people think that politics is too divisive and not worth the effort. What best describes your opinion about participating in politics (e.g., voting, talking about politics, volunteering)? (N = 1,000)

Very or somewhat important Not very or not at all important

